Privacy notification for banking and lending customers (LMI)

Introduction

This Privacy Notification describes how Bank Australia properly manages the collection, use, storage and disclosure of your personal information (including credit-related information).

We recognise the importance of protecting your personal information, and are committed to complying with the Privacy Act 1988, the Australian Privacy Principles, and any industry Code of Practice which we have subscribed to.

View a copy of our Privacy and Credit Reporting Policy at www.bankaustralia.com.au/privacy

Information we may collect – including in connection to the provision of credit

We will only collect and hold personal information for the purpose of providing products and services to you, managing our business and as required by law.

The following are examples of the types of information we may collect and hold:

- contact details including your name, postal or residential address, email, telephone numbers including mobile numbers;
- information and documents to verify your identity including date of birth, tax file number; previous 2 addresses, your current and last known employer, a copy of your driver's licence or passport;
- passwords, passcodes and knowledge-based questions used for your account security
- voice verification using your voice print on calls for your account security;
- information about your financial position;
- information regarding your personal circumstances such as vulnerability and financial difficulties where we consider it reasonably necessary to provide you with products and services;
- job applications and related information – if you apply for a job with us, please see our Privacy Notification for Job Applicants; and
- information relating to your use of the Bank Australia website, internet banking and/or application ("App").

Where sensitive information is required as part of your application for credit, to support you during any financial difficulties or to provide certain services (e.g. voice print for VoiceID or health information), you will be asked for your consent prior to it being collected.

In connection to the provision of credit, information we may collect includes:

- your credit file, your credit history, and applications for credit
- your repayment history;
- information about your current or terminated consumer credit accounts;
- financial hardship information about you. This may include information about whether your obligations are affected by a financial hardship arrangement, any unexpected changes to your financial situation (such as losing employment), relationship breakdown or a death in the family, family and domestic violence, details of injury, illness, gambling or addiction; and where you have been impacted by an emergency event or a natural disaster;
- information about your payments overdue for at least 60 days and for which collection action has commenced;
- whether you are a guarantor; and
- other information about credit standing, worthiness, history or capacity that credit providers can disclose under the Privacy Act, including a credit report.

We may collect personal information from you by various means including in-person, by telephone, using video conferencing, by email, by letter, and through our website, social media channels, and mobile apps.

Reasons we collect and hold information

We may collect, hold, use and disclose your personal information for the purposes of:

- assessing and processing your application to acquire, administer or discontinue any financial or banking products and services that we provide;
- when providing credit to you, this may include assessing your application for consumer or commercial credit or to be a guarantor, assessing your credit worthiness, managing your loan or the arrangements under which your loan is funded or in the collection of overdue payments including notifications via SMS;
- identity verification and customer due diligence to meet our obligations under anti money laundering and counter-terrorism financing laws, and to protect your account from unauthorised access;
- complying with legislative and regulatory obligations, for example we are legally obliged to collect and hold personal information about you to assess your capacity to repay a loan;
- providing information to joint account holders;
- confirming security information, including notifications via SMS;
- providing you with information about your payment transfers and any details regarding overdrawn accounts or accounts in arrears, or when we combine or set off your accounts, including notifications via SMS;
- considering support during any financial difficulties you face including for the purposes of entering into a financial hardship arrangement;

- providing you with information about financial services and products from third parties we have arrangements with;
- obtaining further information about you from credit reporting agencies and other third parties to assess your application;
- conducting research, including customer satisfaction research and market or demographic research in relation to the products and services you and other members may acquire from us, planning, product development or risk assessment;
- sending you marketing material, promotional messages and other information that may be of interest to you (see “Marketing preferences, data security and online privacy section”) including membership benefits; and
- investigating disputes, complaints or mistaken payments.

Wherever possible we will collect personal information directly from you. However when you apply for credit or apply to be a guarantor, we will collect information about your credit history from a credit reporting body and other lenders. From time to time we may ask you to confirm your contact information.

If you do not provide us with the personal information we request, we may not be able to consider your application for credit or provide other products or services.

Disclosure of information – including your credit-related information

We may disclose your personal information (including credit-related information) to other organisations that provide services that assist us in supplying or administering the products and services that we offer. We also disclose your personal information as required by law. We only disclose your personal information to the extent necessary and as required by law.

We do not generally disclose your information to overseas recipients. However, if we do disclose this information outside Australia, we will do so on the basis that the information will be used only for the purposes set out in this notice.

The types of organisations that we may provide your personal information to are:

- organisations that provide information to verify your identity and income, including electronic verification;
- organisations that provide document management systems used to collect documents from you used to support your application for credit;
- organisations that provide services to verify the authenticity of documents and information that you provide us to support your application for credit;
- organisations that provide services which assist us to aggregate information that you provide with your application for credit, in order for us to assess your creditworthiness;
- our professional advisers such as lawyers, accountants or auditors;
- providers of payment and card services when you make a transaction using a payment service or a card;

- your representatives, such as professional advisers including lawyers and accountants, conveyancers, brokers and agents;
- entities that help identify illegal activities or prevent fraud;
- external service providers for statement printing and mail out, card production, market research or direct marketing;
- third party product and service suppliers to provide information to you about their services and products or other third parties with your consent or where authorised; including organisations with whom we have arrangements to jointly provide you with products or services;
- insurers;
- credit reporting bodies, banks and other financial institutions, or credit providers and their professional advisers;
- persons you use as referees;
- for property loans – property valuers, proposed or actual guarantors and insurers such as our lenders' mortgage insurers, or;
- mortgage documentation service providers;
- trustees and managers of securitised loan programs;
- debt collection agencies, credit reporting bureaus, process servers; or
- government or regulatory agencies, bodies or corporations, statutory bodies, courts of law, tribunals or regulators, or otherwise as required by law or to assist with enforcement activities.

This includes Housing Australia, the Commonwealth, or any State or Territory Government for any one or more of the following;

- loans where a home buyer guarantee or equity share contribution is provided by a Commonwealth entity or Commonwealth company as part of any Australian Government Scheme,
 - a loan or guarantee is provided by or on behalf of a State or Territory to support home ownership and/or,
 - loans guaranteed by the Commonwealth under the SME Guarantee Scheme,
- to meet the requirements of the Scheme.

Credit reporting bodies

If you apply for or hold any kind of credit with us, we may disclose information to a credit reporting body. The credit reporting bodies that we disclose information to are Equifax, Experian, and Illion.

That includes disclosing that you are in default under a credit agreement or have committed a serious credit infringement.

Credit reporting bodies collect credit information about individuals which they provide as credit reports to credit providers and others in the credit industry to assist them in managing credit risk, collecting debts and other activities.

We do not need your consent to make an information request about you to a credit reporting body. If we make a request, it may affect your credit score or credit rating calculated by the credit reporting body.

The impact of credit information requests on your credit score or credit rating will depend on the type and amount of credit you apply for, the frequency of requests, and your credit history.

“Credit pre-screening” is a service for credit providers wishing to send direct marketing material about credit services. A credit reporting body uses information it holds to screen out individuals who do not meet criteria set by the credit provider. Credit reporting bodies must maintain a confidential list of individuals who have opted out of their information being used in pre-screening. To opt-out of credit pre-screening, contact the credit reporting body, using the contact details on their websites, referred to above.

You can also ask a credit reporting body not to use or disclose your personal information for a period if you believe on reasonable grounds that you have been or are likely to be a victim of fraud, including identity fraud.

Disclosure to insurers and guarantors

Lenders’ mortgage and trade insurers

In connection with providing credit to you, a lenders’ mortgage insurer or a registered trade insurer may obtain credit information about you from a Credit Provider or from a credit reporting body to assess whether to provide lenders’ mortgage insurance to us in relation to an application for consumer credit, or whether to provide trade insurance to us in relation to an application for commercial credit.

Guarantors

In connection with providing credit to you, the Credit Providers may give a guarantor, or a person considering becoming a guarantor, credit information about you to enable the guarantor to decide whether to act as guarantor, or to keep the guarantor informed about your repayment of the credit secured by the guarantee.

Personal information about third parties

You represent that, if at any time you supply us with personal information about another person (for example a referee), you are authorised to do so; and you agree to inform that person about who we are, how to contact us, how to obtain our Privacy Policy, and that we will use and disclose their personal information for the purposes set out in this Permission and that they can gain access to that information.

Electronic verification

Under the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorism Financing Act, we can disclose your name, residential address and date of birth to a credit reporting body. The purpose of this disclosure is to ask the credit reporting body to assess whether the personal information disclosed matches (in whole or part) personal information about you held in their records (if any). This electronic verification process helps us to verify your identity.

The credit reporting body may prepare and provide us with an assessment by using the personal information about you and the names, residential address and dates of birth contained in its records about other individuals.

If you do not consent to us verifying your identity by electronic verification, we will provide you with an alternate verification process to identify you.

Consumer Data Right

The Consumer Data Right (CDR) gives you the right to:

- access some of the data, including personal information, held about you by us; and
- consent to an accredited third party accessing your data held by us.

We have a policy about our management of CDR Data. It is available on our website. You can also obtain an electronic or hard copy from us on request.

Marketing preferences, data security and online privacy

Marketing material can be delivered by a range of methods including sms, email and, online advertising and social media in accordance with the Spam Act 2001 (Cth) and the Privacy Act.

If you receive marketing material from us and do not wish to receive this information any longer, please contact us directly or use the unsubscribe facilities included in our marketing communications.

Where applicable, you can opt out from receiving marketing material from us, by using the applicable 'unsubscribe' functionality or by contacting us directly.

Please note that marketing material does not include important information about your account. If you are a Bank Australia customer, we will use your personal information to send you messages containing important information about your account. These messages are an important part of the service that we provide to you and will be sent to you as long as you hold an account with us. Customers with an account cannot opt-out of receiving these messages.

Data security

We hold your information in our banking system. As a bank, we must comply with data privacy and security regulations.

We have security and control systems in place to guard against unauthorised access.

We will destroy or de-identify information when we no longer need it.

Online privacy

Cookies

“Cookies” give users of our web server or application a unique, random identification by storing small text files onto your computer’s hard drive with your internet browser.

How we use cookies:

1. Unique identifiers (such as login name and password) are collected from web site visitors to verify a user’s identity and for use as account numbers in our record system.
2. Unique identifiers are also used to access stored information about a visitor’s preferences to enable the dynamic display of the site according to your preferences when you return.
3. Targeting or advertising – these cookies are used to deliver marketing and advertising material that are relevant to you. They also limit the number of times that you see an advertisement and help Bank Australia ensure the effectiveness of our marketing campaigns.

Disabling Cookies

It is possible to disable the acceptance of cookies by your web browser. However, doing so may restrict your ability to access some web pages.

If you prevent the use of cookies, the information mentioned above will no longer be stored by your browser and with every visit your information will be required and have to be completed again. You should also note that the use of Digital Banking is not possible without the use of cookies. Specific settings regarding cookies depend on the type of browser.

For more detailed information, please refer to our Website Security & Privacy Statement

Lenders mortgage insurance (LMI) privacy notification

This notification is only applicable to lending customers who have lenders' mortgage insurance

How your information is collected by the Insurer

The Lender collects your personal information when you apply for a mortgage. The Lender then applies to the Insurer for lenders' mortgage insurance for that mortgage. Your information is then collected by the Insurer from the Lender.

Where permitted by the Privacy Act 1988, the Insurer will also seek and obtain from a credit reporting body:

- commercial credit information (concerning your credit worthiness or history);
- consumer information;
- collection of overdue payments information; and
- other information about credit standing, worthiness, history or capacity that credit providers can disclose under the Privacy Act, including a credit report.

What is the purpose of collection

The Insurer collects your information for the purposes of securing and administering lenders' mortgage insurance for your mortgage, including dealing with claims and recovery of proceeds.

What happens if you do not provide your information to the Insurer

The information collected by the Insurer is required under the Insurance Contracts Act 1984 and is necessary for the Insurer to undertake its business. If you do not provide any of the information requested of you then the Insurer will not be able to issue the insurance. As a result, the Lender may not be able to provide the mortgage to you.

How the Insurer uses your information

The Insurer uses your information to:

- assess the risk of:
 - providing lenders mortgage insurance to the Lender;
 - you defaulting on your obligations to the Lender;
 - you being unable to meet a liability that might arise under a guarantee, in respect of mortgage finance given (or to be given) by the Lender to another person;
- administer or vary any lenders' mortgage insurance cover provided, including dealing with claims, recovery of proceeds and enforcing the mortgage in the place of the Lender;

- conduct risk assessment and management involving securitisation, credit scoring, portfolio analysis, reporting, fraud prevention and claim recovery;
- comply with legislative and regulatory requirements including the Privacy Act 1988 and the Insurance Contracts Act 1984 as amended from time to time.

The Insurer also uses your information for such other purposes as may be permitted by the Privacy Act 1988.

Who the Insurer discloses your information to

The Insurer may disclose your information as permitted by the Privacy Act 1988 to:

- its related companies, whether in Australia or overseas, specifically in the Philippines;
- the Lender;
- reinsurers;
- credit reporting and ratings agencies;
- other mortgage insurers;
- parties for the purpose of securitisation;
- a guarantor or potential guarantor;
- its service providers (including marketing companies, data consultants and IT contractors);
- to parties for the purposes of fraud prevention;
- its agents, contractors, and external advisers;
- your referees, including your employer;
- your legal and financial advisers;
- government and other regulatory bodies (eg the Insurance Council of Australia);
- mercantile agents if you default on your obligations to the Lender;
- payments system operators; and
- other financial institutions and credit providers.

The insurer may also, to the extent permitted by the Privacy Act 1988, disclose information about you to the credit reporting body for any purpose set out in this consent. The credit reporting body may then include your information in reports that the credit reporting body gives other organisations (such as other lenders) to help them assess your credit worthiness. Some of the information may adversely affect your credit worthiness (for example if you have defaulted on your loan) and accordingly, may affect your ability to obtain credit from other lenders.

When the Insurer may share your information

The Insurer may need to exchange your information with credit providers and advisors during the course of the mortgage insurance policy for any purpose set out in this consent.

When the Insurer may seek and obtain additional information about you

The Insurer may seek and obtain further personal information (including sensitive information) about you during the course of the mortgage insurance policy. The terms of this consent and the Insurer's Privacy Policy and Credit Reporting Policy apply to the collection, use and disclosure of that information.

The privacy policy and credit reporting policy

The Insurer's privacy policies and credit reporting policies can be found on their websites. The policies contain information about the following:

- how you can access and correct your personal or credit information (as appropriate) that the Insurer holds;
- how you can make a complaint about a breach by the Insurer of the Privacy Act 1988 (including any applicable privacy principles) or any registered privacy code that binds the insurer in respect of your personal or credit information (as appropriate); and
- how the Insurer will deal with such a complaint.

Consent to use and disclose your information

The lodgement of your application acts as consent that your information can be used or disclosed by the Insurer and Lender as contemplated in this form.
