The Company holds an Australian Financial Services Licence, Australian Credit Licence, [is an Approved Retirement Savings Account (RSA) Provider, subject to ASFL variation] and is an Approved Deposit-taking Institution (ADI), authorised to use the restricted terms “bank”, “banking” and “banker”.

The purpose of this Charter is to set out the authority, role, structure, responsibilities, and general operations and protocols of the Board of Directors of the Company (the ‘Board’).

This Charter is supported by the charters for various Board committees and informed by the Company Constitution and APRA Prudential Requirements predominantly through CPS 510 and related guidance.

2. Authority

The Board derives its authority to act from the Company’s Constitution and the laws in Australia, particularly those governing banking and finance as determined by APRA.

The Board is ultimately responsible for the corporate governance of the Company and for ensuring its sound and prudent management. In undertaking these responsibilities, the Board will have due regard to all of the Company’s stakeholders, its role in the community and responsible banking purpose.

Under the Company’s Constitution, the Board has the discretion to delegate its powers to any committee or other person (its “general power of delegation”), but may not delegate any of the following powers:

- appointing a person as a Board appointed director or to fill a casual vacancy on the Board; and
- appointing, remunerating, varying the terms of employment of, or terminating the Managing Director (MD).

A schedule of additional general matters reserved for the Board is included in the Board Delegations of Authority Policy.

The respective Board approved policies and schedule of financial delegations also set out specific delegations by the Board-to-Board Committees/MD and management and mechanisms for monitoring the exercise of those delegations, noting that the Board cannot abrogate its responsibility for oversight of the functions delegated to committees or management.

- balance short-term realities against the longer-term to have regard to both the future and the existing interests of the existing membership; the benefit to future membership; and the stewardship of the accrued wealth generated by past members.

In performing its role, the Board owes no general duty to:

- a particular member, group of members, contractors or community group other than compliance with all laws governing the relationship; and
- its employees other than to comply with all laws governing the employment relationship; employees' interest in common with other members; and their interest as a stakeholder in the ongoing viability of the company.

The Board must exercise its general management and other powers for their proper purpose consistently with the purposes for which they were conferred.

More specifically, the Board must ensure that the Company does all things necessary to ensure that the financial services covered by its licences are provided efficiently, honestly and fairly and inter alia:

- conditions of the Company's Australian Financial Services and Credit Licences are complied with along with other financial services laws;

Directors are required to avoid actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest.

A Director who has a material personal interest in a matter that relates to the affairs of the Company must give the other Directors notice of such interest in accordance with the Corporations Act 2001 and the Company's Constitution. Such notice should be provided in writing to the Company Secretary, who is to ensure that the notice is brought to the attention of the other Directors.

When a potential conflict of interest arises, the Director concerned does not receive copies of the relevant Board papers and withdraws from the Board meeting while such matters are considered. Accordingly, the Director concerned neither takes no part in discussions or voting nor exercises any influence over other members of the Board.

If a significant conflict of interest with a Director exists and cannot be resolved, the Director is expected to tender his or her resignation after consultation with the Chair.

If the Chair determines that a particular Director's performance was unsatisfactory the Chair may, after following the due processes documented in the Fit and Proper Policy, recommend to the Board that the particular Director should not continue as a member of the Board or, in the case of a Director due to stand for re-election at an AGM, that they should not stand for re-election.

6.6 Director remuneration and indemnity protocols

The aggregate quantum of Directors' remuneration is determined annually at the AGM. At the first meeting of the Board after the AGM, the Board determines each Director's individual annual remuneration level.

The Company's Constitution makes provision for the Company to indemnify each person who is or has been a Director. The Constitution also provides that the Company may enter into an insurance policy for the benefit of a person who is or has been a Director.

7. Review

The Governance and Remuneration Committee will review this Charter at least every three years or as necessary in the light of changes to the external environment, the Board's operating activities or the risk profile of the Company. Any material changes are to be submitted to the Committee for final review and recommended to the Board for approval.
