About William Woods University

Established in 1870, William Woods University is a learning community of more than 2,500 students and faculty, representing all 50 US states and 40 countries, with over 750 traditional students on its 225-acre campus in Fulton, Missouri.

A coeducational, independent, professions-oriented institution, The Woods offers degree programs as diverse as an internationally recognized Equestrian studies program, a four-year American Sign Language interpreting program, a criminal justice degree with homeland security emphasis, a Cybersecurity degree and the Show-Me GOLD program, which prepares graduates to serve as officers in the Missouri Army National Guard.

Growing and thriving in the competitive world of higher education, William Woods welcomed its largest-ever class of new incoming students for the second straight year in 2024 and has added seven new degree programs and seven new intercollegiate sports just since 2022.

The William Woods Story

William Woods University has a long and fascinating history originating in the aftermath of the American Civil War. First known as the Female Orphan School, the institution that is now William Woods University was founded in 1870 in Camden Point, Missouri in response to the needs of female children orphaned during the war.

During the late nineteenth century, the institution moved to Fulton, Missouri, and expanded its elementary and secondary programs to accommodate young women who aspired to become teachers. Known briefly at the beginning of the twentieth century as Daughters College, the institution changed its name to William Woods College to honor a major benefactor and began offering a two-year college program. In 1962, anticipating dramatic changes in the role of American women in the labor force, William Woods became a four-year college.

Expanding its mission to address the need for graduate and adult-oriented programs, the institution became known as William Woods University in 1993 and began offering graduate degrees and admitting men as well as women into all of its programs.

An independent institution, chartered by the State of Missouri, governed by a self-perpetuating board of trustees, and in an ongoing covenant relationship with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), William Woods University remains committed to serving the public good by helping students link intellectual development with the responsibilities of citizenship and professional life.

Mission

William Woods University promotes a student-centered learning environment valuing inclusion, creativity, and intellectual inquiry. Focused on professions-oriented education, we prepare learners for success.

Vision

The vision of William Woods University is to be recognized as a progressive and growing leader in higher education, fiscally healthy, and achieving quality in all aspects of institutional life, while cultivating highly respected, innovative, unique programs.

College Leadership

Ms. Romain Seguin

President

Romaine Seguin, '82 became President of William Woods University on December 13, 2024. She made history as the first graduate of The Woods to become president of the university. Romaine served as a member of the Board since 2011 and as Chair since 2019. She most recently served as the Chief Executive Officer of Good360, a global leader in product philanthropy and purposeful giving, following a long career of leadership with United Parcel Service (UPS). Seguin served as president of UPS Global Freight Forwarding, overseeing air, ocean and rail freight forwarding, as well as brokerage and supplier management for 220 countries and territories. As president of the UPS Americas Region, she was responsible for all UPS packages and cargo operations in Canada and more than 50 countries and territories across Latin American and the Caribbean.

A 1982 graduate of William Woods with a degree in marketing management, Seguin began her career with UPS in 1983 as a part-time hub supervisor in St. Louis. She then held a variety of increasingly responsible operational and management roles with UPS both in the U.S. and Europe.

In 1994, Seguin returned to the U.S. as Air District Controller, and was promoted to a senior operational role in which she was responsible for opening the first automated test wing at UPS Worldport. She moved to Europe in 2007 to become managing director of UPS South Europe and was promoted a year later as Chief Operating Officer for the Europe, Middle East, and Africa Region, based in Brussels.

A frequent speaker at community and business events, Seguin has received multiple awards and recognition for her work in the international business community. In addition to serving on the WWU Board, she also serves as a board member for both Fight Colorectal Cancer, Women's President Organization, and the Boys and Girls Clubs of America Southeast Region.

The Location

Fulton, Missouri, is a historic city located in Callaway County, known for its rich heritage and small-town charm. Fulton is surrounded by scenic rolling hills and rural landscapes, offering outdoor recreational opportunities such as hiking, fishing, and camping. The nearby Missouri River and Mark Twain National Forest provide additional natural attractions. The city boasts a vibrant downtown area with historic architecture, local shops, and eateries. Situated about 25 miles northeast of Jefferson City, the state's capital, Fulton enjoys proximity to both educational and cultural amenities. While a hybrid work schedule will be considered, considerable time is expected on campus.
