

Everyday Habits for a Successful Device Trial

You're doing something incredible.

Everyday habits make a big difference. These small steps help your loved one feel confident using their QuickTalker Freestyle and ensure that your device trial period is as successful as possible.

1. Charge the device overnight

Plug in the device before bedtime so it's fully ready for the next day. A charged device means no missed communication opportunities.

2. Keep the device with your loved one

Keep the device nearby at all times. Communication opportunities can happen anywhere and this will help your loved one get the most out of their device trial. Where they go, their voice goes too.

3. Attend every speech therapy session

Make each scheduled session a priority, and always bring the QuickTalker Freestyle with you. Each session allows your speech language pathologist and your loved one learn more about the device.

4. Connect to Wi-Fi whenever possible

Connecting to Wi-Fi keeps apps up to date and the device running smoothly. Wi-fi keeps things working their best.

Small habits. Big results.

These daily routines help your loved one's communication grow stronger every day. You're doing great, and we're with you every step of the way.
