Uncover What Motivates You and Others

Let's face it. Work relationships can be tough and misunderstandings happen. But when we understand ourselves and each other, it can make everything so much easier and more enjoyable. Essential Motivators™ helps you tap into your unique strengths so you can bring your best self to work. And when everyone on the team knows each other's motivators, suddenly, we're all working together more smoothly and supporting each other's strengths.

Personality and temperament systems are everywhere, but they're usually too complicated for day-to-day use. Essential Motivators takes a different approach, with just four core patterns that are simple, effective, and easy to remember. You'll be able to use what you learn immediately.

Created by Linda Berens, an expert with more than forty years of experience, Essential Motivators is here to help you recognize what you do best, work through challenges, and connect more effectively with others. Join us to unlock the potential of your team together.
