

DECEMBER 2023

IUL CAP UPDATES

TRANSAMERICA®

Transamerica is committed to carefully managing our suite of index universal life (IUL) products to remain a strong carrier in the marketplace. To honor that commitment and best serve our clients and agents, we take a disciplined approach to managing our cap rates.

IUL Cap Rate Updates

Effective December 16, 2023, Transamerica is changing cap rates on index accounts for previously sold IUL products. There are no changes to floors or participation rates. There are no cap rate changes for FCIUL and FFIUL IUL09 (not available in New York) issued on or after June 17, 2023 (SC issued on or after September 1, 2023).

WHY ARE SOME CAP RATES GOING UP WHILE OTHERS ARE GOING DOWN?

Not all IUL products are the same. Over time, economic factors such as capital market volatility, interest rate changes, and other influences can impact the hedging costs differently for each of our products. That's why Transamerica reviews and manages all our IUL products independently. This helps to minimize the impact of changes and allows us to maintain a strong financial position so we can continue offering a competitive suite of products for your clients.

IMPORTANT DATES/TRANSITION GUIDELINES

Cap rates apply to the index account segments as of the beginning date and apply for the full segment period. An index account value is equal to the sum of the values of the index account segments, plus any values from a pending transaction that may apply to any given segment. This value may include net premiums, loan repayments, transfers, and excess index interest, if any, as allocated to the index account(s).

- In force IUL policies:

- For impacted products (see table), new and/or renewing segments generated on or after December 16, 2023, will have the new cap rate.
