In their natural habitat of the rainforest understory, Fittonias live as a low-growing, creeping groundcover. They thrive in the shaded and humid environment of the South American tropical forest floors.

LIGHT

Bright indirect light, but highly adaptive to very low light

WATER

Average water needs, but can be on the drier side between waterings

FERTILIZER

Feed once per month at half strength when plant is actively growing in spring and summer. When days get shorter, reduce fertilizer and water.

GROWTH

In a slow clumping spread, Fittonias grow beautifully in terrariums or planted alone. They add a charming touch as a soil cover plant in a dish garden or under tall plants such as Philodendron and Alocasia as they thrive in similar environments.
