SUSTAINABILITY

Guided by our commitment to UN Sustainable Development Goals and our Sustainable Operation Guidelines, we embrace the natural beauty of the Heo Peninsula while safeguarding it for generations to come.

In 2022, the resort unveiled Ninh Van Greens, Vietnam's first in-resort solar farm with 800 solar panels lies an organic garden that powers the resort with renewable energy, provides fresh produce, and heats water sustainably — an innovative step toward responsible luxury. And in 2024, we add newly 432 solar pannels, totally providing 26-30% solar energy to the resort.

Our Sustainability Fund — fueled by a 0.5% of revenue, Six Senses water sales, and 100% of soft-toy langurs sales — supports impactful initiatives. Imagine discovering a new flower species, Curcuma sixsensesensis, or protecting nine ancient cycad trees honored as Vietnamese Heritage Trees. We've documented 300 species, including the rare silver-black chevrotain, rediscovered here after 30 years. Partnering with GreenViet, we helped grow the Critically Endangered Black Shanked Douc Langur population from 109 to 194 since 2019. We have been restoring coral reefs and collaborate with VARS to plant 4,000 trees upstream in Quang Tri province, creating a ripple effect of positive change.

At Six Senses Ninh Van Bay, sustainability is part of your experience. Explore Ninh Van Greens, stroll through buzzing beehives and lush gardens, or join workshops at our Earth Lab to turn waste into treasures. Every detail, from farm-to-table dining to eco-friendly design, reflects our passion for preserving nature.
