

A Faster, Better Way to Find Key Documents

AS DATA VOLUMES AND COMPLEXITY RISE, A ONE-SIZE-FITS-ALL APPROACH IS NO LONGER ADEQUATE TO FIND THE INFORMATION YOU NEED FOR YOUR CASE.

A traditional approach to document review lacks the ability to analyze documents with the nuance, speed, and scale required to tackle today's workplace data. In contrast, the Lighthouse key document review solution brings together a highly specialized team of linguists, subject matter experts, and purpose-built technology to deliver the documents that matter, faster.

Using a proprietary search tool, linguists perform nuanced searches within the text and metadata of documents. The teams find the most likely 'hot' documents first so you can get the initial batch of interesting documents even faster. At the same time, they identify and exclude irrelevant documents, enabling the team to quickly home in on what's key.

Lighthouse vs linear review

A global law firm was frustrated with the accuracy and pace of the linear review team's key document identification process. With their timeline slipping away, counsel brought in Lighthouse to quickly deliver the documents they needed.

Important documents missed by linear review were found by Lighthouse to bolster case strategy and mitigate risk:

This document minimizes the argument we are trying to refute

This is extremely relevant to this case. It not only discusses the concerns we are looking for, but it also mentions an alternate reason we can use in our defense.

Lighthouse's Purpose-Built Solutions Deliver High-Quality Results, for Less

In addition to getting better results, the law firm would have seen a savings of 16% had they tapped Lighthouse for key document identification from the beginning. Further leveraging Lighthouse to review for responsiveness could have led to a savings of 64% in comparison to linear review.
