Re: Request for Approval and Support to Attend the ASCO Genitourinary Cancers Symposium

I am requesting approval and budgetary support to attend the ASCO Genitourinary (GU) Cancers Symposium, February 26-28, 2026, in San Francisco, California. This meeting is hosted by the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO) and will bring together world-renowned multidisciplinary experts, practicing clinicians, novel drug developers, and research trailblazers at this premier global event. Attending the symposium will provide me with numerous opportunities to gain a better understanding of targeted therapies and delivery methods to apply at our practice, grow my peer network connections, and learn about the newest products and advanced technologies, all of which will benefit our organization.

Program

Attending the ASCO Genitourinary Cancers Symposium will allow me to participate in the premier global event that has helped advance GU cancer science and transform patient care for over two decades. The program features three days of multidisciplinary panels, tumor board discussions, and interactive learning, including:

- Treatment Selection, Response Assessment and Monitoring Across the Spectrum of Advanced Prostate Cancer
- Non-Muscle Invasive Bladder Cancer Management in Transition: Integrating Emerging Evidence Into Practice
- Innovations in Kidney Cancer in 2026: Diagnostics, Novel Targets, and Trial Design
- Daily Rapid Oral Abstract Sessions
- A keynote presentation
- All-day poster sessions

Sessions are in one main session room and I can follow the whole meeting program without having to pick and choose what sessions to attend. The meeting content is versatile and highly interactive with easy access to livestream sessions and opportunities to participate in polling. All educational and scientific sessions will be recorded and available for me to watch or re-watch indefinitely.

Networking

The ASCO Genitourinary Cancers Symposium's sessions and events will occur in one centralized location in Moscone West, allowing for ample opportunities to make connections with colleagues, presenters, and GU cancer specialists around the world. The meeting features both informal and formal networking opportunities to collaborate with multidisciplinary experts and investigators putting the research into practice. Poster Sessions and Poster Walks encourage attendees to meet organically while reviewing and discussing high-quality abstracts. All networking opportunities are included in my registration fee.

Exhibits

Exhibiting companies will be showcasing their products at the ASCO Genitourinary Cancers Symposium. The exhibits will focus on companies providing cutting-edge technology and solutions for the biggest obstacles in cancer care. Additionally, Industry Expert Theater sessions will be offered. These non-accredited, educational sessions are opportunities for exhibiting companies to highlight a new service or the development of a particular product.
