

The Sale

Part 1

Teacher Reads These friends decided to sell items their families no longer needed to help raise money to go to day camp. Setting up a sale like this takes a lot of time and effort. The friends are hopeful that they will sell many items and earn enough for day camp.

Neena, Willow, Jay, and Dan spent all week cleaning
9 things for the sale. At the end of the week, they had 21 a lot to sell. Jay’s dad gave them a big gray coat, and 34 Willow’s mom gave them lots of plants to sell. “At least
45 it’s not all junk,” Jay said. “People may stop and take 56 a look.”
58 “Willow is making muffins,” Neena said. “She 65 thinks that’s the best way to make people stop and 75 shop. She may be right.”

Part 2

Teacher Reads It is time for the sale. Read on to find out if customers come and buy anything.

80        The day of the sale came at last. Jay put up a
92        handmade ad. Willow sat at the gate and gave muffins
102       and milk to people. Mrs. Hill left with six pans and the 114       lamp with a dent in its shade. A man in a truck got the 128       gray coat. Lots of people were taking plants. When Jay
138       saw Neena sell the mattress with lumps, he said, “I may 149       have to take it all back. This stuff may not be junk if 162       people can think of a way to use it!”

Part 3

Teacher Reads Keep reading to find out if the friends earn enough money to pay for day camp.

171       Neena kept the cash in a box. At the end of the day,
184       she said, “Take a look at this!” There was a lot of cash
197       in the box.
200       “You were right, Neena,” Jay said. “I think it’s safe to 211       say that we can all go to day camp, thanks to the sale.”
