

Europe & Middle East

Regional strength. Local expertise.

Crawford®

Built for the way Europe and the Middle East work

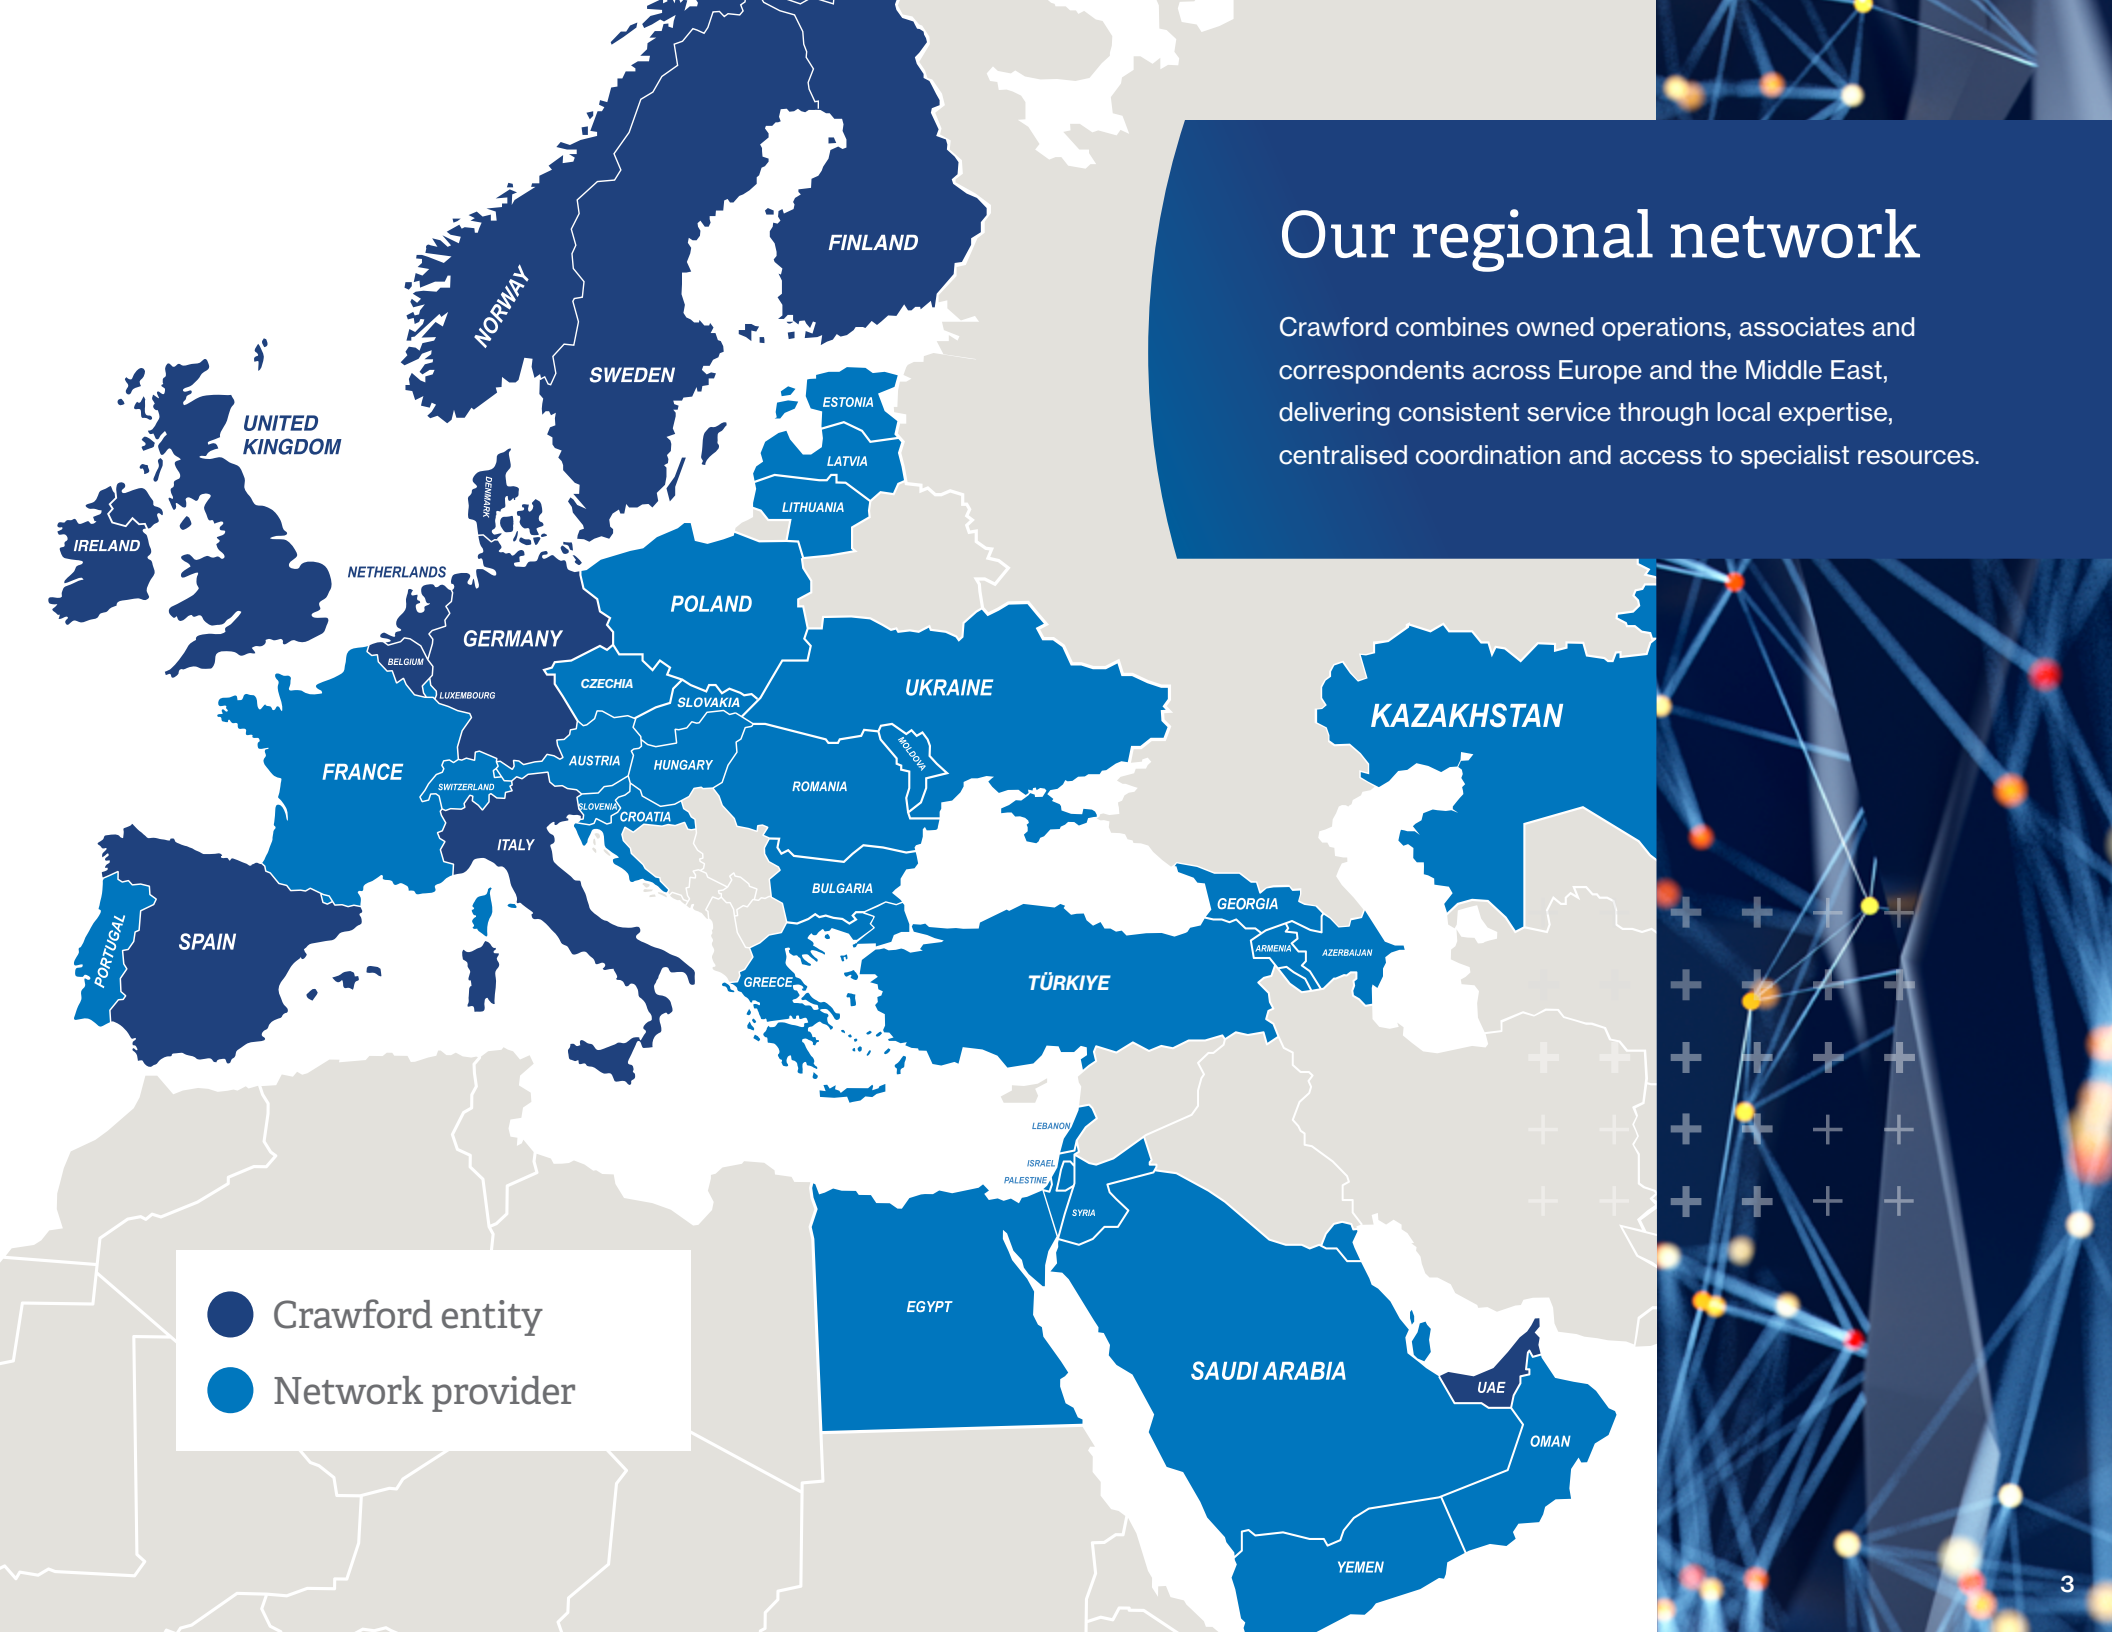

Managing claims across Europe and the Middle East requires expertise in different legal systems, regulatory frameworks, languages and market expectations. Whether supporting outsourced claims programs, day-to-day claims handling or complex losses, clients need a partner that delivers consistent service across every market.

Crawford brings together experienced local teams and a connected regional network to support insurers, brokers and businesses throughout the region. Our owned operations, associates and correspondents work together to deliver consistent claims handling, centralised oversight and local market knowledge while providing access to specialist expertise whenever it is needed.

From high-volume claims handling programs to the region's most technically complex losses, we help clients improve consistency, reduce operational complexity and make confident decisions throughout the claims process.

Our regional network

Crawford combines owned operations, associates and correspondents across Europe and the Middle East, delivering consistent service through local expertise, centralised coordination and access to specialist resources.
