Specialist Liability

Managing complex clinical liability with coordinated global expertise

Complex clinical claims require more than technical expertise. They demand coordinated insight across legal, medical and insurance disciplines to control indemnity exposure and deliver consistent outcomes across jurisdictions.

Crawford Global Technical Services provides a unified approach to clinical liability and life sciences exposures, supporting clients with high value, sensitive and multi-jurisdictional losses through a single, coordinated solution.

What we deliver

- Accurate determination of policy coverage across complex clinical and life sciences exposures
- Reduced indemnity spend through expert led claims strategy and early decision making
- Dedicated subject matter experts with legal, medical and insurance qualifications
- Direct access to experienced decision makers from first notification
- Coordinated global delivery through established local experts
- A single, consistent view of complex portfolios through integrated reporting

Our approach

We deliver an end-to-end clinical liability and life sciences solution tailored to each client, supporting both individual losses and international portfolios.

Our model combines local expertise with central coordination, providing a single point of contact while maintaining market knowledge and responsiveness. This simplifies complex claims environments and supports consistent outcomes across jurisdictions.

We also share insight into emerging risks, market trends and product development, supporting long-term strategic growth.
