

Engineering Services

Access a network of highly qualified, credentialed engineering experts

When you need engineering services to support accurate claim handling, Crawford is a reliable partner that can provide a credentialed, vetted and independently sourced engineer through our network. These top-tier engineering firms will ensure you receive the most up to date, accurate information in determining coverage.

Crawford delivers a national network of qualified engineering experts, on-time certified engineering reporting, program analytics, and standardized pricing. Our platform sets the industry standard by integrating with your workflows and allowing you to eliminate the challenges that often come with locating and vetting potential engineering firms.

Because we continually credential and monitor our network, we hold engineering firms accountable to budget and work product expectations so you can avoid potential liability and construction issues. From start to finish, we oversee the budgets for engineering projects for carriers, ensuring work is done to specifications and supplements are reviewed and approved, eliminating hassles and headaches for adjusters and claims staff. With Crawford, you can expect an exceptional experience for you and your customer.
