SPECIES INFORMATION

Wild Alaska Pollock is one of the most abundant and sustainable seafood species in the world. Not to be confused with Atlantic Pollock – a vastly different species – Alaska Pollock is quite similar to Cod in its mild flavor, snow-white flesh, and delicate texture. Alaska Pollock is also very different from foreign-caught pollock, which is far more likely to be twice-frozen and contain additives.

Trident-caught Wild Alaska Octopus is usable by-catch from the Alaska cod fishery. This item was developed specifically as a vehicle for our usable by-catch in a value-added item for the domestic market.
